VERGINIA CUTLER Family Living receive woman dean

Virginia F. Cutler, now in Iaia serving as a technical editor with the International Curation Administration, has been appointed dean of the College of Family Living. It was announced by President Ernest L. Wilkinson.

Cutler will come to Brigham Young University early in the autumn semester.

The deanship, she will succeed Dr. Jack B. Trummler who has been named director of the Center for Studies in Nation at BYU.

Cutler was professor and head of the Home Economics Department at the University of U from 1946 to 1954 and was instrumental in the establishment of the Home Living department at that school. She worked with Sterling W. Sill in raising $300,000 for the construction of the Center in 1953 and has engaged personal scholarships.

SOH Sill was a consultant in the planning of the 24 Hertha Halls residences for women at the organization of the College of Family Living at BYU. She received her B.S. degree from University of Utah in 1934 and taught there before her marriage in 1944 to R. Carr Cutler, who died two years later.

She obtained her master's degree at Stanford University in 1937 and the Ph.D. degree at Cornell University in 1941 while studying in California on a home economics scholarship with the University of Cornell Extension Service, causing until 1944.

Bk replaces Hall

Jay V. Beck, professor of biology, will serve as acting director of the Brigham Young University Research Division during the sabbatical leave of Dr. H. Tracy Hall, it was announced by President Ernest L. Wilkinson.

Beck received the B.A. degree in 1933, the M.L. in 1936 and the Ph.D. in 1941, all at the University of California in 1940. He joined the faculty in 1951.

Before that time he was a science teacher with the U. S. Public Health Service, 1936-41; assistant professor of chemistry at University of California, 1944-46; associate professor of bacteriology at Pennsylvania State College, 1947-

Thespian production set for Smoot Bldg.

"Arsenic and Old Lace," one of America's most famous plays, will be the first dramatic production presented "in the round" at the Arena Theater located in the basement of the new x-shaped Smoot Administration Building.

The air-conditioned Arena will seat 100 people on all four sides of the central stage while the actors utilize all doors for their entrances and exits.

"Arsenic and Old Lace," written by Joseph Kesselring is an American classic renowned for drawing large audiences and making lots of money.

The play concerns itself with two loveable sisters, sweet old women, who poison guests in their home with elderberry wine to an endeavor to speed them to their final rest.

An equally demented nephew, humorously forced by his proposed South American visit, two other nephews add character to the play.

THE TWO "slightly touched" sisters are played by Lenore

Taylor and Lucille Thorne. Ray Jones, Gary Stewart and Ned Richardson will portray the nephews Teddy, Mortimer and Johnathan.

Others in the cast include George Mangan, Peter Carkulla, Arvid Wilden, JoAnn Buckley, Bob Nelson, Roger Hale, Dale Harris, Larry Call, and Cliff Cabanilla.

DR. LAEL J. WOODBURY will direct the play, assisted by Peggy Laustenslager.

Tickets will go on sale Aug. 9, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., in the lobby of the Joseph Smith Building. General admission is $1.50 per person. Students will be admitted free with an activity card.

Noted tenor will present two concerts

Gilbert Russell, operatic and concert tenor, will sing in the Joseph Smith Building Wednesday, Aug. 9, at 8:15 p.m. and again on Thursday at 10 a.m. for the student assembly.

Russell was brought to America from his native England by the late showman, L. B. Mayer. He was under contract to MGM for two years, then went to New York and appeared both as a singer and an actor on the Broadway stage.

He played the leading role in "Song of Norway" for three years and also sang several in the leading roles in "Student Prince," "Roberta," "Music in the Air," "The Great Waltz," "Rosalinda," "Gypsy Lady," "Merry Widow," and many others both in the East and for Edwin Lester and the Los Angeles Civic Light Opera Association.

Russell then turned to the operatic and concert fields, where he is appearing extensively both in the United States and Europe and has been guest soloist with such conductors as Sir Thomas Beecham, Arthur Fiedler, William Steinberg (Meredith Willson), Molnar Pradeill and others.

Other participants include Carol Lynn Wright who does dramatic readings, and Diane Chatwin who will dance. Jimmie Lawrence will act as master of ceremonies.

Faculty plan to present unique acts

Students may see the administration and faculty romp through their famous acts Tuesday, Aug. 8, at 10 a.m. in the Joseph Smith Auditorium.

Produced under the auspices of the student assembly, it contains unique and well known acts. Dean Antone K. Ronayne will perform his renowned "Smear Routine." Musical selections will be performed by Janie and Rita Thompson. Janie will do her famous "Genealogy Song."

Other participants include Carol Lynn Wright who does dramatic readings, and Diane Chatwin who will dance. Jimmie Lawrence will act as master of ceremonies.

Carl Fuerstner to present his last concert at BYU

An unusual piano concert of rarely performed works will be given Monday, Aug. 7, at 8:15 p.m. in the Joseph Smith Auditorium.

The concert will feature Carl Fuerstner, noted concert pianist, conductor and composer, who will make this his final appearance as a BYU faculty member.

MR. FUERSTNER will solo in the little-heard "Pictures at an Exhibition" by Moussorgsky.

The second half of the concert will be devoted to the concert overture "Scots for Their Country" by Bell Bartok. The unique work has been played in Utah only twice before.

PERFORMING the difficult work will be McGehee, who will be Merrill Bradshaw of the BYU faculty, pianist, and William Johnson and Robert Campbell, percussionists with the Utah Symphony Orchestra.

Studentbody schedules king-sized chicken fry

Friday, August 4, a Chicken Fry will be held for the summer session students. The food will be served from 6:00 until 7:30 p.m. on the east lawn of the Joseph Smith Building, and will include a supper, games, and dancing.

Fun times students will be admitted with an activity card. All others will be charged $1.00 a plate. Young children will be charged 50¢.

ACCORDING to Larry Shumway, chairman of the activity, there will be enough chicken for 1200 people. He states, however, that the food will be distributed only until 7:30, so it would be wise to arrive early. After supper, games will be held on the west lawn followed by dancing in the Smith Family Living Center from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. Casual dress is the style and "The Simple Life" is the general theme.

ASSISTANT Larry with the help of Steve Anderson in charge of publicity, Beth Olson in charge of entertainment, and Ron Hills in charge of tickets and checking.

The supper will include fried chicken, potato salad, tossed salad, soft drinks and an ice cream bar. It will be served by the J.S. cafeteria catering service.

Extension services schedule classes for interim period

For those students remaining in the Provo area in the interim between summer session and fall semester, a late summer extension program is planned by Adult Education and Extension Services.

CREATED three years ago for foreign students and those who wanted to return to their homes for this brief period, the program is designed to offer full semester credit for courses taken.

Normally about 80 students enroll in this added program which includes mostly group-type courses. This enables many to continue their studies toward graduation. A similar program is offered during the Christmas holiday season.

VETERANS are entitled to G. I. Bill provisions during the late summer extension program.

research and activities are invited to attend, clinic director J. Grant Stevenson said.

Director Stevenson has traveled throughout the United States and in 15 foreign countries, has done special research in England, Denmark, and the United States.

HE IS SKILLED in biographical research. His publications include "Research Aids for the British Isles, Continental Europe, United States, and Canada" and "Genealogical Poetry, Songs, and Writings," plus two volumes of family history.

Clinic visitors will sit in daily sessions Monday through Saturday at noon. Registration will be August 7, at 8 a.m. in the lobby of the Smith Family Living Center.

THOSE WISHING to register in advance by mail should write to Special Courses and Conferences, BYU, Provo. Group rates will be available to LDS Church wards.

INCLUDED in the week of instruction will be courses on fundamentals of genealogy, making an attractive binder, valuable Book of Remembrance, family associations, publishing family histories and copying genealogy pictures.

OTHER TOPICS discussed will be preparing records for temple work, obtaining, filing and preserving pictures and negatives, research methods in England and Wales, correspondence, time-saving devices and preparations for trips to the Genealogical Library.

TAKES SKILL. — Solomon Aranda uses the cleaning brush on one of the larger oil paintings in the Wilkinson collection.

Aranda restores 34 Wilkinson oils

Since 1952, some 34 oil paintings done by Cecilia H. Will Benson, mother of President Ernest L. Wilkinson, have hung in the reserve reading room in the Great Library.

Paintings are from 30 x 32 inches to 5 x 10 inches; the can vases are all framed and display several different painting techniques.

However, the paintings have not been without damage, mostly scratches or punctures.

This is when Solomon Aranda came into the picture. Mr. Aranda, an artist from Mexico at teaching Brigham Young University, is skilled in restoring paintings and was asked to restore the 34 Wilkinson paintings.

The process of restoring consists of cleaning, patching and retouching the paintings. Now that it would take to accomplish his task, Mr. Aranda said, "Probably two weeks."

After the paintings, which belong to President Wilkinson, are restored, they will be distributed among the children of Cecilia H. Wilkinson.

Studentbody officer stresses necessity for modest dress

By Judy Babb
University Feature Writer

"Appearance is not only the basis for first impression, but it often has a marked effect on the individual. For these reasons, bikinis, shorts, skirts, shorts, will not be worn in classes or on the quad."

An integral part of the BYU standards for 1961, this statement also applies to the dress regulations on the BYU campus according to Ron Hale, dress committee chairman.

Hale's purpose of dress standards is to promote neatness, uphold the Church ideals, gain respect, and create an example for others. He informed by improper attire reflects upon the school and the Church.

Therefore certain rules have been formulated as a guide to correct appearance. The first is to always wear school clothes—skirts, sweaters, blouses, dress ses, jumpers on campus including weekends, final week, and evenings.

ACCEPTED dress for meals with the exception of bikinis and shorts coming below the knees are permissible, is school clothes. At school dances strapless, narrow straps or backless dresses are allowed. The shoulders must be covered and necklines must be high.

Students not properly attired may be asked by the administration or faculty to leave the class room, library, or school functions. Dance partners will ask immediately dressed girls to leave.

Long-time librarian remembers first move

"They will sit best here in the new library," said Newburn I. Butt, Brigham Young University Associate Librarian and Researcher. His comment refers to the many books and pamphlets that he has catalogued on local history.

"I have been a part of BYU library since 1927," recalled Mr. Butt.

Since then Mr. Butt has expended much time and energy in collecting materials on Utah history, transcribing diaries for historical purposes, and devising a system for indexing these materials.

He was awarded the Mount Pleasant Library Association award at BYU for his work in the local history field. He had indeed many histories, Information, magazine newspaper clippings about Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints members in Ohio, Illinois Missouri and other places. BYU Board of Trustees minutes from 1915 to 1945, and the early years of many Utah cities.

Mr. Butt, nostalgic, recalls his earliest days at BYU when the library was housed in the Education Bldg on lower campus. Room D was set aside as a library and Mr. Butt said, "We had books in storage for lack of space."

When the library moved into the Grant Library, we were faced with the same problem—lack of space. History has been repeated. We have volumes stored in warehouses."

Today, more than 300,000 books, including Mr. Butt's collections, have been processed and are being placed in the new university library building.

Mr. Butt received a Bachelor's degree from Utah State University and later was awarded a Master's degree from BYU in 1939. He has also studied library methods at the University of Chicago, Library of Congress and moved into the green and throughout the Western States.

But most of the time Mr. Butt has been involved in collection and cataloguing projects. At the end of 1955 Mr. Butt had amassed a collection of more than 4,400 books, pamphlets and a great amount of manuscripts. In addition to this, he had transcribed 235 diaries ranging from a few pages to one diary that was in five typewritten volumes.

Mr. Butt had become a subject specialist in his area of interest and has taught history at the histology and researches in the country, according to the Mountain-Man Library Association.

Among some of Mr. Butt's more notable projects at BYU are supervising and editing indexes for The Comptroller, Improvement Era, Church News, Church History in the Church, Conference Report, Evening and Morning Star, Journal of Discourses and Elder's Journal.

He has also edited the Harris Diary, BYU Faculty Minutes, The Blue and White magazine and Board of Trustees minutes, and has charge of faculty files, including the photograph files.

Music clinic to conduct musical activities week

By Richard D. Steut
University Staff Writer
Music Clinic, now under way on campus, and conducted by Brigham Young University music department faculty, is assisted by some of the outstanding musicians and educators in the world. They are acting as guest lecturers on various wind and string instruments.

WILLIAM RHODES, one of the best-known classical musicians in the country west, is directing the symphony band for four hours and giving a series of lectures on instrument teaching techniques for high school band leaders and university students. His college work was started at the University of Michigan, where he was solo clarinetist for four years in the University of Michigan band.

Rhodes has taught in clinics at the University of Texas, University of Iowa, Iowa State University, and many others. He is the band director at New Mexico University.

KINALD KELL, education director of the woodwind division of Bruno and Son, New York City, N.Y., is giving a series of lectures on demonstrations in the college and high school divisions of the clinic.

Mr. Kell is one of the outstanding clarinetists in the world. He has made recordings with most of the major record companies. In addition he has been solo clarinetist for the London Philharmonic and Professor of Music at the Royal College of Music in London and the New Royal School of Music in New York.

COMING TO THE BYU from Salt Lake City, is Richard Nibley, educational director of Piero Music Company. He has been first violinist with the New York City Symphony Orchestra and the New York City Symphony Orchestra. He is giving a series of workshop lectures on the teaching of string instruments for music educators at the clinic.

From California comes Ruth Zwicker, director of string classes in Alhambra, California. She has written a book titled "Methods of Teaching String Instruments in Public Schools." This year's music clinic is the largest to date with students enrolled from 11 western states.

IOC needs officers

Several temporary and permanent positions are open for those interested in working in the IOC this summer and next year.

Among the positions to be filled are an auditing chairman, planning committee chairman, publicity chairman, and several publications vacancies.

Interviews will be held Friday from 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. and Saturday morning from 10 a.m. to noon in the IOC office. Everyone interested should sign up for an interview time in the IOC office.

2 BYU wards will compete in Church tourney

Two Brigham Young University Stake softball teams will participate in the Utah Valley Division of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints All-Church softball tournament, which begins in Provo Monday, according to director Bill Hafen of the Intramural department.

THOSE TEAMS representing the "Y" will be BYU 1st Ward and BYU 2nd Ward.

Play will continue in the intramural portion of the softball program until school concludes Aug. 25th, according to Hafen.

THE MURAL director also announced that play in tennis singles competition was completed last week when Harris Fuchigami of Hawaii defeated Dewey Funk of Mesa, Arizona.

In girls' tennis, Linda Weston of Bear River, Blanding, of Provo succeeded in defeating Joan Ralph to take first place in the women's singles.

CULMINATING summer session play, two contests move into their final days of competition with local tennis mixed doubles finding Dan and Mary Larson challenging Weston and

Consul praises effect of English socialism

"Americans, in general think all socialists are bad. To them, the image of a socialist country is an evil thing."

Ian Adams, British consul, clarified the concept of socialism to a group of political science and government students last Friday.

Of special interest to the teachers of 4th, 5th, and 6th grades were the collections of pocket fiction stories. Many school teachers may be interested in the many war stories. Of interest to all teachers are the biographies of virtually all well-known men.

AMERICANS are just as confused by socialism as they are about communism, he said. In fact, there is about 300% more socialism than the English system. To the query that someone asked, if socialism damages individuality, he replied, "Both."

Mr. Adams delivered his remarks as a routine part of his job as British Consul. Standing in front of his lecture hall includes Colorado, Utah, and Wyoming, an area three times the size of England but less populated.

THIS LECTURE was part of his duties visiting clubs, Rotarians, and organizations where he depicts Britain's position in the world and portrays the English people to their American counterparts.

The routine part of his job includes writing and checking in visa, passports, and birth dates of English citizens abroad in the United States.

Before assuming this present position one year ago, he was the vice-consul in Viet Nam.

In the course of his lecture to BYU students Mr. Adams explained that, whereas in the past, England supported failing parts of the economic program, now progress is being made by encouraging good parts of the program.

On the Canadian question, he noted that the Canadians are struck with their similarity to Americans, while the Americans note a large difference between them.

THE CANADIANS, having a satisfactory peaceful development were surprised, he commented until then, when Canada was myth or a long distance away. They need a distinct personality like the United States.

Clarifying the education system, Mr. Adams depicted the class differences. He said that now ordinary school students had the privilege of attending secondary schools, while college students are on grants. Those with an edge in social standards become sorted out and qualified.

HE STATED that it is harder for the U.S. to accept the idea that someone deserving scholarship, regardless of financial status, should receive it. Similarly, he said, it should be awarded on merit alone, not to "some bramsh chap because of lack of money."

On the West German crisis, he explained that the situation has also seen him support letter on their position. West Germany, he said, is putting up with a disagreeable situation. As he sees it, the West and the Russians are in the same position as the Americans. Denmark and the Stockholm both had radar and a cognizance of the other's presence, but were unable to avoid crashing.

He ended by expressing his gratitude at his reception at the BYU and hopes to return.

Library service to end on 15th

Tuesday, Aug. 15, is the last day for service in the Heber J. Grant Building and Eyring Science Library Workshops and the time to renovate these buildings for future occupants.

After AUGUST 15, the Reserve Library in the McKay Building will be open and books may be checked out during the week except during the summer.

Reference collectors, periodical indexes, and the print catalog will not be available for student use, however. Those needing these tools must use them prior to closing time.

It will be necessary to secure the books from the Reserve Library in the McKay Building on being used during the balance of the summer. Once the call number is known, the books may be secured at the west entrance of the library.

Those needing books from the Reference Collection, the materials should plan to do so not later than August 25 when these facilities will no longer be available.

The Literary Moving Committee asks for the cooperation and understanding of the students in making available their services in connection with a particular course, contact Louise Therne at the reference desk.
